Building Operations in Queens.

A new record for building operations in Queens borough was made in the year 1910 according to the report of the bureau of buildings of that borough. Plans for 4,136 new buildings were filed during the year, representing a total cost of $15,349; 177. Of the plans for buildings 2,299 were for detached frame dwellings and 550 for detached brick dwellings. The cost of these dwellings amounts to more than $6,000,000, which the statistician of the Queens building department says exceeds the record of any one of the four other boroughs.

Nicholas Longworth of Ohio to-day introduced his bill to create a permanent tariff commission. The measure was prepared during the holiday recess and has the approval of President Taft. It proposes an appropriation of $250,000 for the purpose. Mr. Longworth, explaining the bill to-day, said.

"This bill has been drafted after careful reading of the various bills that have been introduced in Congress relating to a tariff commission. It contains what in my judgment are the best features of these proposes."

The statements of the other prisoners recited by Riley placed each of them the commission to appear before them. In general the purpose of the bill is stated to be to establish a permanent tariff commission, which shall have all the powers of the present tariff board, and in addition, further powers for the purpose of making it a thoroughly efficient body and to give it every proper facility for conducting its investigations.
